

Four Seasons Roofing Inc. Receives GAF's Prestigious President's Club Award

East Farmingdale, N.Y. – 05/01/2014: Four Seasons Roofing, Inc.

Four Seasons Roofing Inc. of East Farmingdale, New York, has received GAF's most prestigious contractor award: The GAF President's Club Award. This highly coveted award recognizes Four Seasons Roofing Inc. as one of the "Elite of the Elite" residential roofing contractors in the United States.

GAF is North America's largest roofing manufacturer, and only GAF Master Elite® Contractors can compete for its President's Club Award. To qualify for this award, a contractor must demonstrate an exceptional level of excellence in their business, especially in the areas of Installation Excellence, Consumer Protection, and Installer Training.

Four Seasons Roofing Inc. has been a GAF Master Elite® Contractor since 2000. To become a GAF Master Elite® Contractor—a status that less than 3% of roofing contractors nationwide have achieved—a candidate must demonstrate proper licensing and adequate insurance, have a proven reputation and show commitment to ongoing professional training.

As part of their community involvement, Four Seasons Roofing Inc. successfully completed their first Habitat for Humanity project in Central Islip this year. The company also says "thank you" to its customers by donating, in their customers' names, to Nourish the Children, an initiative of Nu Skin Enterprises, Inc. For every job that Four Seasons Roofing installs with GAF's Golden Pledge® Limited Warranty, the company donates one VitaMeal — a food package designed to provide 30 balanced, nutritious meals to a malnourished child in a third-world country. As of March 2014, Four Seasons Roofing has donated 10,290 meals to needy children around the world.

Earlier this year, Four Seasons Roofing instituted its FourEver Roof™ maintenance program, an annual or biannual service in which the company inspects a customer's roof and addresses any detected issues to maintain it in good condition. The FourEver Roof™ program is available to both commercial and residential customers.

In 2014, Four Seasons Roofing looks forward to further growth and recognition and to continue offering added value. The company plans to provide solar energy systems and to possibly expand into siding and window installation. "Roofing and solar go hand in hand," says Stephanie Taylor Rutigliano, marketing/customer relations manager of Four Seasons Roofing. "We've had numerous meetings with solar manufacturers and distributors. Customers appreciate that we'd be able to offer a complete package of services. They'd prefer to work with a contractor that does both roofing and solar — instead of dealing with two separate companies — and that offers full warranties on all components." She expects the company to launch its solar initiative by midyear.

"We are experienced, professional, honest, and fairly priced," says Rutigliano. "Customer satisfaction and safety are our priorities. People see the value that we offer. We've been told that a lot of our competitors look up to us — to the point of recommending Four Seasons over their own companies."

A third-generation, family-owned business, Four Seasons Roofing has been serving Long Island, New York, for 31 years. The company maintains a skilled and knowledgeable team of roofing experts, using no subcontractors. Offering financing and accepting all major credit cards, Four Seasons Roofing has thousands of satisfied customers in the Long Island area. The company is affiliated with the National Association of the Remodeling Industry, the National Roofing Contractors Association, the North East Roofing Contractors Association, the Building Trades Association, and the Hauppauge Industrial Association. It has also received the Angie's List Super Service Award and has maintained an A+ accreditation with the Better Business Bureau for three decades.
